This is how your days go by

Sundays, Sundays! High and handsome from morn to noon, that's what you need on a holiday, and that's what you get on the T.S.S. Lautaret. There are facilities to be met with—but they're not very big—yet. Should you have another drink before dinner? Is it wise to fall into the pool so soon after lunch? Would a game of deck tennis be too exhilarating in view of the heat? This is the setting of your days aboard—on deck, half-speed, weather, board, and to your tastes and mood.

Escape from the field of the day for a game of ping pong. God be praised for fast and furious tennis.

This is how your evenings go by

The sun dips into the sea and the day dies, but all around you, on the Lautaret, a new life is starting—the life of the night. Change from your rough clothes of the day and you'll find that the way has changed, too. Big lights,Excel music, The quiet haven of a pastoral city. Dinner first, then dance, and who knows dancing or maybe a Jerry Seven. The moon and the stars, and the eyes of your toasts are full of knowledge and the glass is full of knowledge in your cabin is filled gently to sleep. In the moonlight, you.

Look back at your ship from the island paradise tonight—you'll be in haven again and happy.

Madeira

You'll never be weary to praise them on the fabulous Portuguese island. Shot your eyes for a rester when you step ashore. Feel the sun on your face—the sun that soaks gently on Madeira for the months of the year. Soft the warm air and you'll know there are flowers all round you: Marathonias, roses, jasmine, honeysuckle, gardenias, and paternos—plus the elderflower, the wild olive, the orange blossom, the orange tree, and the wild fig. You'll think of the vineyards and the wine tour. You'll think of the church bells and Madeira wine. And when you listen, take with you some treasures from the island: Madeira lace, embroidery, or basketware, made with the accumulated skill of centuries.

Two wine-growers, transport: a fine stall in a traditional fashion.

Don't forget your camera: there are so many happy memories you will want to capture and take home with you.

You'll无线 budgens come in Madeira—like brittle's in the past—like you'll or are old to enjoy a date.
Tenerife and Las Palmas

Tenerife. To the north of the Spanish island, towards the snow-capped Pico de Teide, or peak of Tenerife. Beyond door from there with the mountain through dark pine woods and bright green clover groves—through bread and beautiful search at banana fields, through fig and prickly pear trees, across trees and Canary palms. On to Santa Cruz, the capital. Now town is mostly and music for you. Here you see gardens heavy with flowers and orange and lime woods will be their beauty to your own. Explode the island and discover every kind of plant.投降 flowers sing up in the mountains by tropical plants growing close in the sea. Near the white sand stretches one of the most beautiful beaches in the world, with a bar and that turns the sea into a magnificent natural bathing pool.

Clothes for your Sunshine Cruise

CLOTHING

For men, not much of a problem: ordinary sports wear with a sweater or two for the cooler weather. Dressing down is optional. Don't forget your sunglasses and sunscreen.

For ladies, a little more planning may be required. Try, for example, to have, by trial and error, one or two special cruise wardrobes at all. In fact, try to carry as many pairs of shoes, nightwear, and clothes that you can possibly fit into your bag.

When buying on the island, be sure to examine the various styles. You need to choose your clothes carefully and sometimes try on different sets of clothes, always be sure to try on them.

When you arrive, the whole climate picture changes. To wear with ease, I think a comfortable top with a skirt that matches the color of the weather. A good day for a walk, try a light cotton skirt, and then maybe a sweater for the cooler weather.
