

How do I repair ripped trousers by creating a bermuda

By le petit atelier de Tika

Materials

A Razmocket who rips his trousers god knows how !!!

Trousers which are ripped in two places and worn on the other leg

Completion time

For a beginner, it should take half an hour. For a confirmed sewer, count 15 minutes.

The longer will be to iron the trousers to have a perfectly straight cutting and install your sewing machine or serger.

Method

It's the easiest repair on a child cloth. In a few steps you will realize the repair and the Bermuda can be worn if the weather is kind.

To avoid further ripping, don't wash the bermuda even if it's unpleasant to sew dirty clothes. If you have to wash it, prefer a short cycle to limit the fraying.

How do I repair ripped trousers by creating a bermuda

Step 1 : Cutting

You've seen in introduction the result of an intensive use of the trousers by my Razmocket... not very easy to repair if you want to preserve the length of the leg. Furthermore, thinking of the seams, they must be worn out and the risk of breaking somewhere else on the knee is important.

I had the chance that there was a seam I could follow to cut the legs :

How do I repair ripped trousers by creating a bermuda

Step 2 : Sewing

As the trousers are a little bit tight, I decided to only serge the bottom of the leg.

The round sewing must be done without the mount on the serger.

The bottom of the new bermuda looks like this :

How do I repair ripped trousers by creating a bermuda

Step 3 : Et voilà !! It's done !!!

The aspect of the bermuda once finished suits me... mainly because of the life it will have.

If you're not satisfied of this aspect, you can make a simple overcast by sewing it like in my tutorial on How to repair a bermuda.

COPYRIGHT - This model can be as personal and noncommercial use. It is forbidden to offer for sale or for commercial purposes an article made from this model without prior agreement of the author.