Preparations for the Olympics Games 2016 – Heading for French Guiana !

As a country neighbouring Brazil, French Guiana is in an ideal geographical location for teams looking to acclimatise and make final preparations ahead of the World Cup 2014.

French Guiana is the largest French overseas "department" with a landmass the size of Portugal. It is a haven of France in South America, with all of the advantages which that entails in terms of health and safety.

Its positioning as the gateway for Europe into South America has been reinforced for a number of years now by the strategic presence of the European Space Centre.

Furthermore, French Guiana is a country that is both welcoming and passionate about sport.

It has already witnessed and encouraged the emergence of various high-level athletes including Malia Metella (European swimming gold medallist in 2003 and 2004, silver medallist at the Olympic Games in Athens in 2004) and Lucie Decosse (triple judo world champion, gold medallist at the Olympic Games in London in 2012), as well as football players such as Bernard Lama (winner of the 1998 World Cup and Euro 2000), Florent Malouda (winner of the English Premier League, runner-up at the 2006 World Cup, winner of the Champions League in 2012) and Jean-Claude Darcheville (Winner of the French Cup, French League Cup and runner-up in the Scottish Premier League).

This technical file outlines the football infrastructure which is either already in place or currently being developed as part of the Guiana Advanced Base Camp 2014–2016 project.

These facilities will continue to be expanded and be ready to provide you with the ideal conditions for your needs.

Health

As the north of Brazil, French Guiana has a tropical climate where mosquitoes can carry infectious diseases.

Malaria : preventative treatment only. It is not compulsory but is recommended for short stays.

Yellow fever : Brazil strongly recommend the vaccine. French Health requires that yellow fever vaccination is compulsory when staying in Guiana. This follows the precautionary principle.

The vaccine has no major contraindication, it's painless and does not cause any side effects.

Options

Team Cohesion :

Under certain condition, it may be considered with the Foreign Legion, based in Kourou, and the Marines, based in Cayenne.

Tourism :

The diversity of tourism on offer is perfect for relaxation time.

It is possible to visit the French Guiana Space Centre, the « Iles du salut » or to discover the forest and rivers of Guiana.
