GLAMOROUS PORTS OF SUNSHINE AND BEAUTY

YOU have been to the West Indies, many times, perhaps . . . but this year the going will be gaily different . . . Three wondrous Cruises will be made by that queen of cruise ships, the S. S. France! Until you have slipped away from the drag and worry of business . . . and have sailed toward Southern seas amid the gay, Parisian atmosphere aboard the France . . . do you realize that you have never, as yet, experienced the full joy of going on a West Indies Cruise?

The Cruise begins the moment you cross the gangplank! With the artistry of genius this great ship enfolds you gladly in her great, wide arms of hospitality. She sets before you the world's choicest viands, prepared by a chef whom Parisian restaurants delight to imitate . . . a master craftsman who knows no superior. You may play bridge, promenade her stait decks, chat with new-found friends in the Louis XIV Salon, dance with the smart, young crowd or lounge in your cabin . . . whatever your mood, the France delights to humor it as you sail away.

You leave Pier 57, North River, New York for Havana . . . ah, you know, now, how Columbus must have thrilled when first he beheld the heart of the Antillean sprit that once here, in this spot, he discovered "that beautiful land that has never been seen!" You will have time to visit her historic Morro Castle and Cabana Fortress, her beautiful Spanish Cathedrales and public buildings, her palatial residences . . . and to take long drives through the magnificent countryside of Cuba . . . while here and there the refreshing tinkle of little glasses pleasantly reminds that you are safely beyond the range of amendments and thou-shalt-nots.

Thence you sail to Nassau, capital of the island of New Providence, one of the Bahamas, a spot of haunting, natural beauty and charm . . . a spot whose far-famed beaches offer you the joy of a glorious swim in the clear, blue waters of a tropical sea.

On your way again, to Bermuda, that garden spot of the Atlantic. If you have ever been to Bermuda at Easter time you know what a perfect paradise it is! Blanketed with myriad Easter lilies, it is indeed a veritable Eden. With the France as your hostess, you have visited in this briefest of vacations some of the most enchanting spots in the whole wide world, each one bearing unmistakably the stamp of its own individual nationality.

And as the France turns New Yorkward, there will be imprinted upon your memory forever those glorious, glamorous days and nights aboard ship . . . days made perfect and nights made joyous by this queen of Cruise Ships as she glided from port to port on the vivid, sparkling, island-studded blue of the Atlantic.

We take pleasure in giving you this brief resumé of the delightful cruises to be operated by the French Line. The joy of your West Indies Cruise begins the very moment you decide to go . . . getting ready is so easy! . . . You have only to confide your wishes to us . . . and upon our shoulders will rest the joyous responsibility of completing every arrangement to your liking.

For contact with our agents, call us your time. Our counsel and service in your behalf will be your introduction to French Line hospitality . . . which begins as soon as you have crossed the gangplank of your waiting "bit of France aloft!"
